Formerly a teacher Sneh felt a calling to nursing and worked her way up from being an assistant nurse before graduating from the Australian Catholic University as a registered nurse in 2007.

Sneh has been with DPG since 2008, where she has worked at Principal Edgewood Park near Batemans Bay, Principal Bossley Park and Principal Annandale in Sydney and is currently employed by DPG as both a registered nurse (RN) and also as an Aged Care Funding Instrument (ACFI) Link Nurse.

“As an RN there are regular nursing duties that need to be carried out including managing residents with challenging behaviors, working with visiting doctors to review patients, medication charts and implementing their ongoing care needs as well as liaising with pharmacists. Then there might be a day when a resident is sent to hospital or a resident comes back from hospital – these types of issues all need care – contacting doctors, relatives – this is just an average day’s routine”, says Sneh.

“There are some residents who have set ways, either with their food, routine or medication. If I am able to understand all these and make them happy I feel happy about it. Of course – why not? After all this is their home and they need to be happy in their home.”

“What I love about aged care nursing is seeing what a difference I can make to our resident’s lives. There is never a dull moment, everyday is a bright new day.

Residents in aged care are like my family, they like to talk and need company and this needs lots of patience which I can confidently say I have.”

“Principal Edgewood Park is one of the best facilities where all our residents are very well looked after. We have very caring staff who not only love their job and do it from the heart but are well trained with many years of experience in the nursing field with the ability to manage a variety of situations.”

“I would say to anyone looking for an aged care place for a family member, give us a call, come and talk to one of us, we will take you around the facility and I am confident that you will be very impressed with the way in which we provide care.”

“And for anyone considering a career in nursing I would say. Come and join us! With our increasing ageing population we need and would like to encourage more people to join the health care team so that we are able to provide the best care that aged care facilities need.”
